Building Lives, Growing Relationships, Imparting Hope

Spirit of Adoption

Adoption – a call to be being inclusive

As I became aware of orphan Sunday approaching, my heart traveled back to a day when I too was an orphan or at least felt the aloneness of not belonging anywhere. Being from a divorced home I found my search for love and acceptance a driving force in my life fueled by the need to belong.

Belong to someone....somewhere...thirsty but never satisfied.

God gently drew me to Himself and set me on a path that changed my life forever – one that would settle me into a secure place where my thirst is satisfied – He truly is everything I need – it is where I belong. Jesus was inclusive, He loved everyone, he hugged the leper, took time for the woman at the well, for little children, for those that needed a physician. His followers, alias “family” were an odd one but they knew they belonged. He has included me in his family and has compelled me to do the same.

“You received God's Spirit when he adopted you as his own children. Now we call him, "Abba, Father." Romans 8:15

WOW.... Abba, Father.....Daddy.

So when did he adopt us? When his son, Jesus, died for us. The death and resurrection of Jesus eliminated any hold our earthly past had on us. We often do not comprehend just what “good news” this is. We have an opportunity at a new blessed life, a life with a whole new DNA. A life with a whole new family. Everyone else has that opportunity as well. John 1:12 says “Yet to all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God”. The adoption papers were signed long ago. We didn’t realize it. We just needed someone to show us the inclusive love of God. So now the challenge is to us, to be inclusive, love the unlovely, care for the hurting, someone to be just what we needed when we didn’t fit in. Someone who will introduce them to their new daddy.

Graduation Testimony

Sunday, October 16, the Mustard Seed Homes family hosted a graduation reception in honor of Randy Helgeson and Brian Hourscht. For us at CWLC, the graduation was not so much about “completing the program” and moving on, as it was about finishing one chapter of their lives and passing into the next. It was a celebration of a year-long investment.

So many of you have invested time and energy in our MSH residents and included them in your families. Our MSH residents come into our lives as strangers, but as we adopt each one into our larger family, they become our brothers and sisters and friends. Your willingness to “run along side” and encourage them with “you can do this” has brought Brian and Randy to a point that they are now running the race with us and saying to others, “You can do this!”. What a joy!

As part of the family, we are pleased to have them staying, not only in the area, but working with the Mustard Seed Homes program and at CWLC. In addition, they are doing carpentry and painting projects for area residents.

The Heat is on in Gonvick!

Kyle Anderson and John Gerlofs drilling the wells for the new geothermal system.

The first phase of the heating system for CWLC-Gonvick has been installed. The geothermal system will heat 6,000 square feet. Thank you Anderson Well Drilling for working hard on the project, it is really nice to walk through the north wing and have heat! Thank you to the many Gonvick Alumni who generously gave towards the heating project!

“The project was funded [in part] by USDA Rural Development’s Community Facilities Program which finances essential buildings, equipment and vehicles in rural communities. Rural Development also has funding available for home loans, business loans, water and wastewater treatment, renewable energy projects and high speed internet in rural areas. To learn more about Rural Development programs, visit www.rurdev.usda.gov/mn, or call the area office in Bemidji at (218) 751-1942, ext. 4.”

We are in the process of designing a system and applying for a grant for our second phase of heat which will include the gym.

It is exciting to see various events taking place and community members using the space for activities, it is what we want and having heat helps!

Memorials

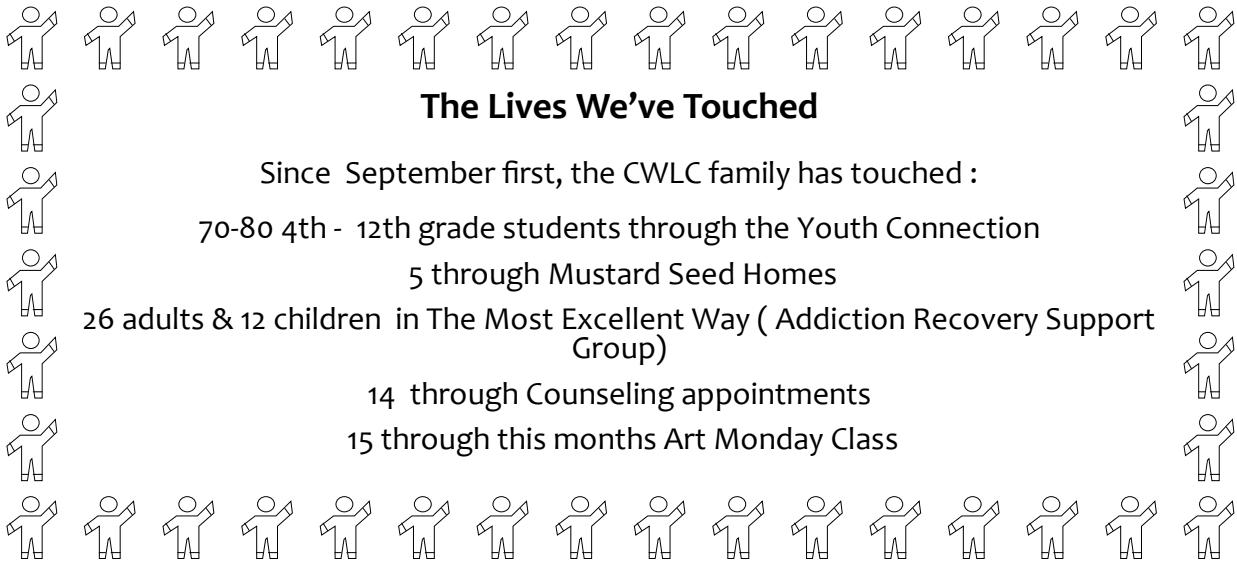

Clear Waters Life Center gratefully acknowledges the receipt of memorial donations given on behalf of the those whom we had “adopted” into our CWLC family. The spirit of adoption was displayed to us with the passing of financial gifts on behalf of those whom we came to love. Adoption means giving when you can’t get anything back. The monetary gifts that CWLC receives as memorials will be used to carry on the work that these individuals came to support and value. With their help, we will continue to “Build Lives, Grow Relationships and Impart Hope”. Thank you to the families and friends of Tom Hendrickson and Paul Morkassel who donated a total of $630.00
